V.F.W. TO HOLD 2ND ANNUAL DANCE IN MOKENA GYM TOMORROW NIGHT

Marionettes to Portray "King of the Golden River"

A new feature of entertainment for this section will be given in the Mokena public school Friday evening, January 24 at 8 o'clock when the Coles, will present the beautiful story "The King of the Golden River" by marionettes. Everyone should avail themselves of this opportunity to see this show if they have never seen one before. At that, this is different as the figures are more live-size than usually seen.

The story is one that is familiar to all school children. It concerns the life of three brothers, Hans, Schwartz and Gluck who owned Treasure Valley. What happened when the valley became a desert, and the brothers became involved with the small and magical King of the Golden River, make an exciting and beautiful play.

The special quality of Ruskin's fantasy is reflected in the scenic settings of the play. The simple cottage interior, with its huge fireplace, the stark bleakness of the jail, the scene on the mountain top, and the most beautiful of all the sets, is the one in which the valley, blighted by lack of wind and rain, becomes once again a veritable garden, a true Treasure Valley.

The Coles, George and Lucille, carve, paint, dress and manipulate the puppets themselves, make all the scenery, search for and adapt stories into plays for their productions. All the material is carefully checked for authenticity as to costumes and historical facts. In doing this, the Coles feel they are bringing to the children a richer and more satisfying type of entertainment.

This is not alone a children's entertainment as adults as well enjoy the production, which is being sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Cappel, principal of Mokena school for the benefit of the school.

New Lenox to Install Street Light System

A system of street lights for New Lenox was voted by the Village Board at a meeting held Wednesday evening Jan. 8. Installation of the lights will be made as soon as the Public Service Company can complete the necessary engineering details. Village trustees voted in the lights after accepting a report by Trustees Everett Merfeld and Walter Baers showing proposed location of the lights.

Inasmuch as the Village will not receive any regular tax funds until 1948, it is possible to install only twenty three lights at this time. These lights, however, are distributed thru out the village in such a manner as to provide the maximum of overall illumination. Later, when tax funds are available, it is planned to increase the number of lights.

Preliminary consideration was given by the Trustees to traffic and administrative ordinances, and these ordinances were held over for action at the next regular Board meeting.

Escape From Fire In Night Clothes

The home of Gilbert Borstad north of Francis road, on Cooper street in New Lenox was completely destroyed by fire Monday morning.

Mr. Borstad had arisen and filled the oil burner at 6 o'clock, and about 7 o'clock, the stove exploded, setting the entire inside of the house on fire. The chicken house, chickens and rabbits were saved as well as the car and truck.

Mrs. Borstad and son, the latter attends the grade school, were removed from the burning building in their night clothes, thru a window.

Everything in the house was burned and only the clothing they were wearing was saved. There was no insurance.

The New Lenox Fire Dept. responded to the call, but the home was beyond saving.

SUPT. OF WILL CO. FARM IN ACCIDENT

Mr. C. A. Sangmeister superintendent of the Will County farm near Joliet, received minor injuries Tuesday evening as he was driving in Aurora.

Mr. Sangmeister, who was alone in his car, had stopped at the intersection of Main and Broadway waiting for the traffic light to change. When he did receive the green light, he started to go forward, then stopped momentarily when he was hit by a truck behind him, driven by Richard Fager of Forreston, who crashed into the back of the Sangmeister machine.

Mr. Sangmeister was taken to the St. Charles hospital at Aurora for examination of his injuries which were found to be not of any great extent. The damages to his car amount to about $90. We are glad to say Mr. Sangmeister is about his duties as ever, improving nicely from his experience. Mr. Sangmeister is a former Frankfort resident.

Sacred music is broadcast from the tower or the church auditorium an amplification is afforded the pastor or speakers from the pulpit.

The work of the Will County Chapter for infantile paralysis victims in Will County is as follows:

There were 59 cases of polio reported in Will County in 1946, resulting in five fatalities. The Will County Chapter is spending on the average of $600 per week for the care and treatment of these unfortunate victims. Out of the 59 cases, 10 or 12 may have permanent or residual paralysis, and it is estimated, for each of these patients, it will cost from $1,000 to $1,800 for their prolonged hospitalization. In addition to this expenditure from the Will County Chapter funds they have purchased a respirator, and two polio pack heaters, totalling $2,195.00. Within the last six months, the Will County Chapter has spent over $16,000.

Village of Mokena May Install Own Water Filterers

At the Mokena village board meeting held last Tuesday a representative was present from the Permutt Company in Chicago who gave information on filtering the village water. Many water users have been desiring to overcome the iron marks of the village water left in toilet and wash bowls.

This has led the village aldermen to inquire into the condition. The Permutt Company removes all foreign matter such as iron specks from the village water by installing two tanks. These tanks automatically flush back every other day, thus cleaning the sediment taken from the water off of the tank filters. This does not soften the water, but it does make it very much easier for home owners to soften the village water with their own softeners. These tanks would cost the village $3,000. In order to install this improvement, the water rates for the village water would have to be increased somewhat.

The Village Board members invite comment on this project from the water users in order to enable them to make a correct decision. It is to your benefit to think this over and to give your expressions to the Board members.

At the Board meeting the resignation of Carl Wolters was given. Mr. Wolters and family have moved to California.

At the annual village election in April, the terms of John Marti, Phillip Hacker and James Egerton expire and the vacancy of Mr. Wolters will have to be filled, making four aldermen to be elected this year.

BAND CONCERT IN NEW LENOX

The New Lenox band will give a band concert in the school auditorium Sunday afternoon January 19 at 2:30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend and thus encourage the efforts of a local musical group.

RECORD crowds set new marks at the turnstiles last season in practically every sport. But what has become of the color that the games once knew? There is probably, or possibly, greater skill and ability around than sport ever has known. But it is quite possible that the big gates and the bigger pay, for pros and college alike, have throttled a vital quality of competition. I think it has. The pay check now dominates the scene.

You might ask me just what color is. Here's one answer—Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Man o'War, Tommy Hitchcock, Earl Sande, Dizzy Dean (in capital letters), Walter Hagen, Exterminator, Knute Rockne, (also in capital letters), George Gipp, Hurry-up Yost, Bob Zuppke, Pepper Martin and Frank Frisch. Each one of these was a champion, but something more than a champion. For each one had a crowd appeal that is sadly lacking today.

For example, Leo Durocher of the Dodgers has drawn more comment than any five managers. Leo is a great manager. But a large flock of this publicity has come from details far apart from baseball. Ted Williams drew more words, favorable and unfavorable, than any other ball player last year. So Ted must have had a type of color. They at least knew he was around, liking him or hating him.

Joe Louis has the color of ring perfection—one of the greatest fighters of all time. But outside of this Joe is an extremely quiet fellow who doesn't like the great bright spotlight.

'Just Business Men'

In Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson, golf has two of the greatest golfers the ancient Scottish game has ever sent to the fairways. But who could say they were in the same class with Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen or Gene Sarazen for crowd appeal? They are two prominent business men who can break 70, collect their dough and move along.

Stan Musial, one of the nicest people you ever met, a great ball player, the top of the year, isn't colorful in any sense of the word. Stan is just a great ball player. He wants to be nothing else. Neither is Eddie Dyer, an able manager and a great fellow. Sport today has become big business. There is plenty in the way of sport left, but with the billions, not the millions, involved, a lot of color has seeped out.

I was talking about this color angle with Frank Frisch, the New Rochelle flower expert.

"Just what is color?" I asked Frisch, as Johnny Kieran cocked an attentive ear, a Kieran habit when any information is coming along.

"The basis of all color," Frisch said, "is always ability first. No punks get by. Many have tried to use color, or so-called color, in the place of ability. It won't work. Color means Dempsey, Jones, Hitchcock, Grange, etc., all stars. Color is also a natural quality. It can't be faked. Two of the most colorful ball players of all time were Babe Ruth and Dizzy Dean. They were naturals. They always were exactly what they were. Human and likable, but great artists. But they were real—not phonies. How that mob can spot a phony."

Game's the Thing Now

"The game doesn't need color today," Frisch said. "You can start a dog fight between two terriers and draw 10,000 people. Ball clubs that were far down in the second division drew from 800,000 to 1,000,000. Football games that meant nothing except another football game were sellouts. Today it is the spectacle, the contest, that fills a stadium or a park, not any outstanding star. It's the game, the show today, not an individual star."

This is all true. It all may be for the general good of sport. After all, only the game counts. But despite this any writer hanging around for human copy misses Hagen, Waddell, Yost, Zuppke and many others who had a certain human appeal that so few have today. Sport competitors are serious people working at a big job now. Most of them have outstanding ability. But with too many it is more big business than sport. The pressure is heavy. The big idea is winning.

Today we have only a few left—and I can't even remember their names. Joe Louis? The top champion of them all—who limits his publicity to ring efficiency. In baseball we have Ted Williams—who is still a big story when he flops. Stan Musial, the best ball player in the game today, is just the best ball player. He has no interest in any outside headlines. Football coaches—able business men with a big job to do. No particular color. No Rockne, no Zuppke, no Yost. It may be better this way.

But it's duller.

Bees Essential to Agricultural Needs

Winter Care to Save Crops for Next Year

By W. J. DRYDEN

Hundreds of hives of bees died during the past season. Many crops depend upon bees for pollination. In order to insure production during next year, it is essential that the bees be saved this winter.

Wintering of bees is not merely a matter of protecting colonies from low temperatures, feeding is essential. Starvation is the principal cause of losses throughout the country.

Bees should be prepared for winter so that they will need no attention until early spring.

While bees survive the cold of winter by clinging together in a great ball, the bees on the inside frequently change place with those on the cold outside.

In most sections of the country, bees were unable to store sufficient food to last this winter, so it becomes necessary to supplement their rations by hand feeding during the winter months. Allowances of sugar may be secured from local ration boards during this emergency.

The operator of the farm machinery repair shop can repair a broken bumper or similar part. In this case it was broken at the point shown in the sketch. The joint was beveled in the manner shown and welded with 1/8-inch flatweld 37", using 120 amperes.

KNOW YOUR BREED

Hampshires

By W. J. DRYDEN

Of English origin, Hampshires were at one time called Thin Rind hogs and classed as a bacon breed. They are now known as a lard type.

Prolific, good sucklers and good grazers, with head and jowls small and narrow, they have good flesh quality and are welcomed on the market.

The Hampshire is black with a white belt around the body at the shoulder, which extends down over the forelegs. They are medium in size. Emphasis is placed upon uniformity in width, neatly laid shoulders, ample width at the rump and deep and plump hams. Neat, clean-cut quality bone is important. Extremes in length and narrow width should be avoided. Coarseness in any part is not favored.

Phenothiazine Proves

New Drug Sensation

Phenothiazine, the sensational chemical compound that controls more kinds of internal parasites in more kinds of animals than any other drug known, has found a new field of economic usefulness—as an insecticide for control of the codling moth. Combined with arsenate, it has given outstanding control of this devastating pest in numerous experiments conducted in many eastern and southern states.

FARMER'S SUCCESS STORY TYPICAL OF U. S. SYSTEM

The Naellsons, father and two sons, own 320 of the black, fertile acres of Red River valley, some 30 miles out of Fargo, N. D. That valuable and profitable farm is a product of the American economic system, and the opportunity it offers the individual.

The elder Naellson, with his bride, emigrated to America from Norway about 50 years ago. They had but little more than their steerage passage money. A land company sold the young couple 160 acres of farm land in Red River valley. On that land they built a sod house and began the climb to the affluence they now enjoy. It was not an easy climb, neither was the life they had left in Norway an easy one, nor did it offer opportunity.

Within 12 years that 160 acres was paid for. They owned it. During the same years a modest frame house had replaced the one of sod. Substantial barns provided shelter for the farm animals they had accumulated. The barns provided housing for farm tools, and such farm crops as were intended for feed.

During those earlier years two sons and a daughter were born. All received an advanced education. The daughter, at 22 years of age, taught in a nearby town school until she married. Through the years the two sons have stayed with the farm.

At the end of 18 years an adjoining 160 acres was purchased, and largely paid for at the time of purchase. Today there are two homes on that 320 acres. One is occupied by the father and mother and an unmarried son; the other by a married son and his family. Both are attractive, substantial, commodious farm homes, well furnished and equipped with such modern conveniences as are unknown in Norway. Eighty thousand dollars would not be an exorbitant value to place on that farm, its homes, farm buildings, equipment and stock. It represents fulfillment of an opportunity America, and our economic system of free enterprise, offer to those with energy and ambition.

There are thousands, hundreds of thousands of similar incidents depicting farm success. They are found in every section, in every state and county. Back of such successes is the American economic profit system. Such farms represent the profit their energetic and ambitious owners have made. In their accomplishment the nation has prospered. These farmers not only have advanced their own interest, but also have added to the national wealth. In no other nation, under no other economic system, could such success be achieved.

PRESIDENTIAL PRECEDENT

It is possible, but hardly probable, that President Truman "may not choose" to try for another four years of occupancy of the White House. So far as I remember my history no instance is recorded of a President of the United States definitely declining nomination for a second term, even though his first term came as a result of the death of a chief. In one or two cases, notably that of Andrew Johnson, who succeeded to the presidency following the death of Lincoln, no definite personal effort was made to secure a nomination. At the Republican convention Johnson's name was not mentioned as a candidate, and no delegate voted for him. In the Democratic convention this Republican president did receive as high as 65 votes for the Democratic nomination. Grant, a popular war hero, succeeded Johnson, as Eisenhower, a possible drafted candidate by either one of the two parties, might succeed Truman.

BALANCE IN RED INK

Instead of those excessive profits from which labor bosses claim increased wages can be paid, many of America's corporations are writing their balance sheet figures in red ink. One with which everybody is familiar, Western Union Telegraph company, had an actual net loss of 12 million dollars for 1946. Between 1938 and 1946 Western Union's wage costs increased 85.5 per cent, with but one 10 per cent increase in rates. Increased rates do not in all cases mean a corresponding increase in receipts. It means a decrease in use on the part of the public. It is time that something more tangible than a figure pulled out of a hat by a labor boss be used in determining wage increases.

Our home town is only a couple of lusty yo-hoos from that center of marital disturbances, Hollywood. That the disease with which the movie capital is afflicted has not invaded our community is evidenced by the number of golden wedding anniversaries we celebrate. They seem to dominate our social activities. In every case the 50 year wed couples not only seem happy, but also ready for a second 50 years of wedded bliss. If you want to stay married, Orange, Calif., is a good place to live.

BIG FARMS VS. SMALL FARMS

WASHINGTON. — Inside fact behind the senate small business committee's release of the report on small-scale and large-scale farming is that the report had been suppressed for nearly two years by big California land interests.

The very fact that the bureau of agricultural economics dared make the study was one reason the last congress cut its research funds. The study so infuriated Representative Al Elliott, California Democrat and friend of the big farmers, that he has fought all appropriations for farm research ever since.

The study was begun in the summer of 1944, while Congressman Elliott was leading a fight to repeal the old law by which no one could own more than 160 acres of U. S. reclamation land. The study compared two towns in San Joaquin valley section of California's huge Central valley—one, Arvin, is composed mainly of workers on large industrialized farms; the other, Dinuba, is made up largely of people who own and work their own farms.

It was found that Dinuba, the small farm community, had two independent business establishments to every one in Arvin, the big farm community; that retail trade was 61 per cent greater in Dinuba; that 20 per cent more people were supported by the same dollar volume in agriculture in Dinuba than in Arvin; that the residents of Dinuba had a far higher standard of living—better streets, garbage disposal, schools, parks, public recreation, more churches, participation in local government, two newspapers to one.

The study was recognized by economists as of great importance, but the pressure of large farmers and landholders was too great. It lay buried until it was brought to the attention of fair-minded Sen. Jim Murray of Montana, chairman of the small business committee. He determined to publish it.

SURPLUS GRAVY

The comedy of errors that led to discovery of more than two million gallons of high octane gasoline in surplus military planes sold to a Jefferson City, Mo., scrap dealer caused an epidemic of red faces at War Assets administration.

However, WAA chief Gen. Robert Littlejohn and his aides would have been even more embarrassed had the whole story leaked out. Besides the 5,540 planes with their $700,000 worth of gas sold to the Missouri dealer, WAA also sold about 15,000 other planes, also tanked up with high octane gas. This fact, however, didn't get out. In addition, dealers who bought the planes reaped a tidy windfall from costly radio equipment, motors and gears.

OIL SALESMAN LEWIS

In the coal and oil trade, John L. Lewis is sometimes called: "The greatest oil salesman in history." Here is the reason why:

Railroad after railroad, unable to afford costly tie-ups from coal strikes, now is converting from coal to oil. There was a day when the railroads, deriving a tremendous revenue from hauling coal, sided with the coal operators and the miners in opposing oil. But not now.

The Boston and Maine, which, next to the Maine Central, pays more per ton for coal than any other railroad, is switching to diesel engines as quickly as possible. The Jersey Central, which taps the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, also is going over to diesels. And the Pennsylvania, which runs straight through the best bituminous coal fields in the East, is laying in some diesel switch engines.

But the most interesting conversions are taking place on the Union Pacific. That road has long burned oil to some extent, but it also happens to be the sixth largest coal producer in the world, with a production of 6,500,000 tons annually.

The towns of Rock Springs and Hanna, Wyo., are almost entirely dependent on coal mined for the Union Pacific. Today, however, those towns may become like the skeleton mining cities of the gold-rush days.

For, in addition to 600 oil-burning locomotives, the Union Pacific now is converting all mainline passenger trains to oil. In addition, their "Big Boy" freight locomotives, the world's heaviest, are converting, together with 115 switchers and 45 diesel units.

The Santa Fe also has just ordered new diesel units.

Ex-congressman Wesley Disney of Oklahoma, who lost out in the Democratic primary two years ago against Sen. "Cotton Elmer" Thomas, will try again in two years. He may face a primary fight from Gov. Bob Kerr. . . . Assistant Postmaster General Gael Sullivan has been offered the presidency of Air Cargo.

This Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Needs No Cooking. Saves Money.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is surprising for quick results. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a long time, and children love it. This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Jan. 9, 1947

The regular girl scout meeting was held at the school Thursday evening, Jan. 9th with their leader Mrs. Frederick Rauch.

The girls are progressing nicely with their badges and some are completed. A half hour recreation was enjoyed after the regular meeting. Next meeting will be Thursday, Jan. 23.

Last Tuesday evening the Youth Fellowship of the Methodist church met at Hatch hall for a League party. Miss Pat Bennett entertained the group as it is her last time with them.

Mrs. Adolph Steen is serving on the Federal Grand jury in Chicago.

The Afternoon Pinochle club held their annual potluck dinner last Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Martin Muehler. After the dinner, which was exceptionally good, pinochle was played. A good time was enjoyed.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westlund last Sunday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Larson of Joliet and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nelson of New Lenox.

Miss Adeline Semmler and her class of young girls from the Methodist Sunday school, attended the movie "Marge" in the Rialto theatre last Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Blinn of Chicago visited in the Semmler home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Adolph Steen visited Wednesday with her sister Miss Wilma Stammer who is ill in her home with a touch of pneumonia.

Billy Steen who enlisted in the Coast Guard four months ago, is now stationed at Charlevoix, Mich. There are 2 officers and 5 boys in the group. Billy wrote that they had been notified that they would all be invited out for Christmas dinner, but for some reason the invitations did not materialize, so they went into the town and found all restaurants and hotels closed.

They went back to their station and prepared bacon and eggs and enjoyed a supper of corn flakes. Mrs. Steen had previously sent to her son Christmas goodies, and we suppose the parents of the other boys did too, so they were not entirely without Christmas cheer.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Scherer in Silver Cross hospital January 6. The baby has been named Darlene Kay. Her mother is the former Esther Hellmuth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hellmuth of Mokena.

The Lark club met with Mrs. Henry Shevlin Tuesday afternoon. Pinochle was played with prizes going to Mrs. Harold Spiess and Mrs. John Walsh.

The Evening Pinochle club met with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooper last Friday evening.

Cards are being received by friends in Mokena from Mrs. Lilly Cooper who is spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

WILLIAM H. BRAASCH—In loving memory of our husband and father who passed away two years ago, Jan. 14. Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tried to break, but all in vain. To have, to love, and then to part is the greatest sorrow of one's heart. The years may wipe out many things, But this they wipe out never, The memory of those happy days When we were all together.

WIFE AND CHILDRENCARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my many thanks to my friends who visited me many times while in the hospital. Am out now and will soon be on the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rothenberger of Blue Island were the honored guests at a surprise wedding reception Friday evening, Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Caroline Martens, 12616 Greenwood Ave.

The table was candle lighted and very beautifully decorated with a huge wedding cake as the centerpiece bearing the names of the newlyweds.

The January meeting of the Orland Park American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 526, was held in the school library, Friday evening Jan. 10. The Legislative and National Defense program of the Auxiliary was discussed by Mrs. Earl Reish chairman of the Unit for Legislative and National Defense. The following article was read:

"Ten resolutions regarding Legion sponsored legislation were adopted at the National Convention at San Francisco. These include resolutions to extend the time of filing application for World War I adjusted compensation, to permit immediate redemption of G. I. Terminal Leave Government Bonds into cash; to permit discharged enlisted men to purchase surplus items available only to former commissioned personnel, to permit chartered veterans organizations to purchase surplus real estate property, to extend the time limit for applying for mustering out pay and to provide tax exemption on cigarettes purchased by the Legion or distribution in hospitals.

In following the Legion's National Defense program the Auxiliary believes that Universal Military training is the key to a realistic defense program. Thruout the year the Orland Park unit along with all of the other units in the Nation will study and work for the Legions 12 point program. This includes in part, the acquisition and maintenance of such air, sea and ground bases as are necessary for the protection and security of the nation. The continued maintenance and modernization of a strong navy and air force. The development of efficient military intelligence and scientific research systems. The Reserve forces to include the national guard, reorganized reserve of the navy, marines and the R.O.T.C.

We wish that all members and the Legislative and National Defense committee of this unit assist in these activities. After the program, the group enjoyed a game. Refreshments were served by the birthday hostesses, Mrs. Florence Sayers and Mrs. Mabel Ekberg.

Driver-training Course Started In Schools

High school driver-training courses will become a reality in a score or more of Illinois and Indiana high schools next semester, according to Chas. M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 12, was:

"SACRAMENT"

The Golden Text was:

"The bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world" (John 6: 33).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. . . . Therefore also now, saith the Lord, turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning: And rend your heart and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God" (Ps. 24: 3, 4; Joel 2: 12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Of a man it has been said, 'As he thinketh in his heart, so is he'; hence as a man spiritually understandeth, so is he in truth. . . . We should examine ourselves and learn what is the affection and purpose of the heart, for in this way only can we learn what we honestly are. . . . The habitual struggle to be always good is unceasing prayer. Its motives are made manifest in the blessings they bring,—blessings which, even if not acknowledged in audible words, attest our worthiness to be partakers of Love" (pp. 213, 8, 4).

The motoring organization which has sponsored the program in both states has definite reports from 20 Illinois and 12 Indiana high schools that they will start some sort of program this year. Many more have indicated a desire to establish a regular program in September in 1947.

The shortage of trained teachers has resulted in a proposal for teacher-training institutes and cooperation with Normal schools. Have been requested to establish at least classroom lessons.

Feature of the motor club program which is accredited by both Illinois and Indiana is the "Home Cooperation" program. It was designed for those schools which do not have full time instructors and dual control cars. Under this system the student gets his regular classroom work at the school and driver instruction from an adult member of his family in the family car guided by lesson sheets provided by the club.

Motor club safety men will assist any school system in establishing a course and will provide most of the required materials without charge.

United States Civil Aviation had the biggest year in its history in 1946! CAA Administrator T. P. Wright announces the number of registered aircraft more than doubled in 1946 over 1945, shooting up from 37,789 to 85,000 certificated pilots rose from 296,895 to an estimated 400,000 and student pilot certificates issued were 170,000 as against 77,188 in 1945.

Higher Up's—Watch for fireworks in the struggle between Howard Hughes and Jack Frye, president of TWA over TWA policies. It is rumored that Hughes, who owns 46 percent of TWA stock, has asked for the resignation of Frye and other company officials and directors.

Gael Sullivan has been offered the presidency of Air Cargo, Inc. Those of you who know Gael will remember him, as I do, as the personable young Democratic leader who "revved" things up in Chicago's city hall a year or two ago. Always a doer, Gael has been throwing out red tape and establishing a reputation as an ardent aviation enthusiast ever since he took office as Assistant Postmaster General in October, 1945.

Contrary to the report that he will resign his present post at the end of January, I believe he will withhold a decision on this and other offers he has received, until Congress legislates air parcel post, his now big objective.

Check Points—The modern day Florence Nightingale has a chance to give her all to aid humanity and to enjoy the American scenery while doing it. Air Ambulance, Inc., has available special twin engine ambulance planes to fly patients to or from anywhere in the United States. Planes are hospital equipped, and have a registered nurse aboard. Mothersills Ailsick Remedy and its 35 year old companion Seasick Remedy are being prosecuted in Federal Court in Los Angeles for misbranding, instituted by the Food and Drug Administration on the ground they are dangerous to the user when used as directed in the labeling! G. I. Flight schools engaged in training veterans to fly under the G. I. Bill of Rights can now borrow up to 95 percent due from the Government each month, under a plan devised by United Pilots and Mechanics Association. It is estimated that a helicopter flying at 80 mph. forward can be brought to a dead stop in mid air in 75 feet! Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. will sponsor a racing event, OPEN ONLY TO SMALL PLANES, in the National Air Races this Fall.

Details of the event, to be called Goodyear Trophy, with a purse of $25,000 are yet to be worked out, according to Frederick C. Crawford, president of the National Air Races. A new plan for paying airlines stewardesses, patterned partly after the pilot pay plan of a base salary plus flight pay, has been adopted by Delta Airlines. The plan calls for a base salary which advances with seniority and flight pay of $1 per hour for any flying over and above 50 hours per month.

Civil Air Patrol—Miss Civil Air Patrol will be crowned Queen at the Annual Officers Ball sponsored by Squadron 612-3, to be held at the Morrison Hotel, January 10. Lt. Col. Gordon DaCosta, Illinois Wing Commander and his wing staff will be present. The November issue of Army and Navy Bulletin carries a worthwhile special article on CAP's fifth birthday, its expansion and postwar training program.

Airport News Notes—Quick take-offs and landings soft as feather make ski-flying a real thrill! Now with plenty of snow on the ground ski flying is the order at Rubinkam, Washington Park, Prosperi and Chicago Hammond Airports. Rubinkam has skis on the Aerocars and one Cub, Washington Park has equipped six Taylorcrafts and a Piper Cruiser and Chicago Hammond has five Cub trainers and a Super Cruiser all gliding the High Ways.

Rubinkam Airport: Flight Instructor Roy Cleveland reports that his mother, Mrs. Ike Cleveland of Orland Park, who fractured both arms in a pre Holiday fall, is improving slowly. Be careful when you mention Propwash in the flight office that's the name of the cute new puppy mascot given to the airport by Don Brennan. Capt. Dick Case of the AAL left on Saturday for Ardmore Okla., for twelve days of training in the C54 Pilots school, all of which is old stuff of the Captain who piloted C 54's around the world for the ATC during the war.

Chicago Hammond —At a Hangar dance Dec. 21, approximately 200 guests of the C&H operators were entertained with a smorgasbord and dancing. Congratulations go to Nicholas Johans of Hammond for earning his Private License, and to the following ex G.I's who have completed their flight training in the G I School: Robert Martin of Sumner, Ill. John Morgan and Kenneth Sullivan of Hammond, Joe Suto and Thomas O'Connor of Chicago. The Standard Oil Co.'s plane, The Lode-star, with Pilot Larry Short at the controls, left on Saturday for Kansas City. Jack Morton of Chicago was recently checked out in the Stinson 10A.

Washington Park—Flight Instructor "Shorty" LaBolle reports a heavy schedule, with more than 75 ex G. I.'s enrolled there in the G I Flight Training School.

That's all for now.

The 6th meeting of the New Lenox Bluebird winter club was called to order by Audrey Gilgen, presiding chairman, at the local school January 6. American Legion At Peotone Sponsored Blood Typing Clinic

The laboratory report for the Blood Typing Clinic which was held at Peotone recently has been received by the Will County Health Department.

The clinic was instituted by the American Legion of Peotone. It was thought by the Legion members that a card file giving the blood type of local persons would be a definite service to the community when emergency transfusions are found necessary. Arrangements were made for the clinic through the Will County Health Department and the Community Service League of Peotone aided in carrying out the plans.

The laboratory report shows that among the persons who took this opportunity to learn their blood type four discovered that they were in a blood group which is rarely found.

The County Health Officer pointed out that today an examination of the blood is a vital part of any complete physical examination. Scientists have found that human beings can be divided into one or four groups according to certain factors that are present in the blood. The blood of some groups may be mixed without danger whereas the bloods of other groups will not mix satisfactorily.

This classification is based on the fact that the fluid matter of the blood contains a substance called agglutinin, said Dr. Sharp. When the agglutinin comes in contact with the red blood cells of certain other bloods, it will cause a clumping together of the red cells. If such a combination occurs in the body, it may cause a severe reaction and sometimes even results in death.

The blood typing test is now universally employed before blood transfusions, Dr. Sharp continued. Blood transfusions have saved innumerable lives and are especially valuable after incidents when patients have suffered severe hemorrhage.

To locate a person in Peotone with the proper type of blood under the planned card file system will take but a very short time. The blood type taken from the army records of most of the members of the Peotone Legionnaires have also been added to this file. Therefore, at the present time, Dr. Sharp said, there is a total of about 200 names on file available to Dr. Turner and Dr. Holzhauser as well as to the individuals of the Peotone community.

Many Disabled Persons Helped By Project

Twenty-three disabled men and women from Kendall, Will, Grundy and Kankakee counties were placed in paying jobs through the services of the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation during the last fiscal year. As a result of rehabilitation the yearly income of the twenty-three handicapped persons increased from $11,052.00 to $39,962.00.

The Illinois Division is properly staffed and able to assist every handicapped citizen in Illinois if there is a reasonable prospect that the disability can be removed or reduced.

Basically the same services are available to the civilian disabled thru the state rehabilitation agency as are available to disabled veterans under the "G.I." with the exception of pensions and subsistence while in training in industry, colleges and schools, surgery, hospitalization, prosthetic appliances, and job placement.

Those needing assistance can apply at the state office in Springfield or contact the nearest field representative.

George S. Montooth of DeKalb is regional supervisor for this area. Mrs. Margaret L. McFarland, 322 Rialto Building, Joliet, is rehabilitation counselor for Kendall, Will, and Grundy counties. Bernard A. Benoit, 407 Arcade Building, Kankakee, is district counselor for Kankakee county.

Frank G. Thompson, Director of Registration and Education, and Chairman of the state board of Vocational Educational, explained that these disabled persons were earning an average weekly income $9.67 at the time they reported to the Division and that following rehabilitation their average weekly wage jumped to $33.39.

Evening school classes at Thornton Township high school and Junior College at Harvey will begin January 27, and end May 14. Classes will meet from 7 to 9, and some 6:30 to 9:30 on Monday and Wednesday evenings. Registration will be Jan. 20 to 23 inclusive from 6:30 to 9:30 in Room 108 for college subjects and room 108B for high school subjects, High School at Harvey.

The Methodist Women's Society met January 8 at the church with installation of new officers by Rev. J. Frank Anderson. A very fine and most interesting meeting was enjoyed. A short program was given and refreshments were served.

The Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid met Wednesday Dec. 8. The meeting was called to order by our new President, Mrs. Van Antwerp. We also have a new Secretary, Mrs. Curlin and new Treasurer, Mrs. Harry Marg. There was quite a discussion about the Griddle cake luncheon the ladies want to give. Quite a few were present but we hope all the members of the Aid will try to be there at every meeting in 1947. Coffee and sandwiches were served by Mrs. Wm. Rick and Mrs. Arthur Beck.

Our new member is Mrs. Fremder and our visitor was Mrs. John Rensink by Ethel Hopman

NOTICE

To insure the continued high quality of our service in delivery of the Chicago Daily Tribune at your door every week day morning we have found it necessary to increase our charge fifteen cents per month, less than half a cent per day. As of January 13, 1947 the new rate in this area will be $1.10 per month. This is the lowest morning home delivery rate in this area. The old rate of 50c per month for Sunday remains the same. We know you understand the serious problems of increased cost of operation which effects us just as they do every other business activity.

by EVERETT MITCHELL
Farm Commissioner, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago—670 on your dial

FARM and city folks alike have heard plenty about potatoes in the past few weeks; it's one crop we have too much of. They've been bombarded with suggestions on how to use up the surplus, and maybe one more suggestion would be the proverbial straw that breaks the camel's back.

But don't be alarmed. There's been enough said about serving potatoes to humans, so here's one way of disposing of the surplus without eating spuds yourself. Ever hear of feeding potatoes to your pullets? Well, you can, and with good results.

But remember potatoes are composed largely of water—this means four or five pounds of potatoes are equal to a pound of grain. You don't toss them in to the feeder raw. The spuds must be cooked, mashed and mixed up with enough laying mash to make a crumbly mixture.

Don't make up more than the pullets can eat in 15 minutes. You can figure that 100 hens will eat from six to eight pounds of potatoes per day. However, you can feed more to birds out of production, reducing feed grain down to about one pound for every four and a half pounds of potatoes fed. It might be advisable to add about 10 per cent protein supplement and cod liver oil to the mixture if you start feeding potatoes to pullets and help us dispose of the potato crop surplus in an easy and profitable manner.

Until next time, this is your old friend Everett Mitchell wishing you lots of good luck!

FORMER WAR PRISONERS SHOULD FILE CLAIMS IF DISABLED

Former prisoners of war who feel they have disabilities resulting from exposure, malnutrition and other hardships of their imprisonment are now being given special consideration on disability claims filed with the Veterans Administration.

Former prisoners who have once had such claims disallowed may now have their cases reconsidered upon request. Veterans who now feel they are suffering from a disability as a result of their imprisonment should file a disability claim if they have not already done so.

Service Officer Max LeBerda of the Illinois Veteran's Commission, who has offices at 13104 S. Western Ave., Blue Island will assist veterans in filing or reopening such claims.

Good Horse Story Featured At Roxy

A humanly dramatic and interesting tale of a cowboy's love for his horse is unfolded in "Smoky", with Fred MacMurray and Anne Baxter, which will be the featured attraction at the Roxy theatre at Lockport Sunday thru Tuesday.

Cowboy MacMurray owns a horse named Smoky, which he has raised from a colt. The horse is stolen and made into an outlaw for the rodeos. The cowboy is saddened by the loss of his horse until he meets and marries Miss Baxter. By chance the couple find the horse enroute to the glue factory and rescue him. The animal is put out to pasture to live his remaining years.

What strange power could drive a man from the lips of the woman he married into the arms of the woman he loved? Witness the pulse-pounding answer in "The Searching Wind", with Robert Young and Sylvia Sidney, which will open at the Roxy theatre next Wednesday.

Wives Entitled To S. S. Benefit

Effective January 1, 1947 wives of workers entitled to Social Security retirement benefits may qualify for monthly annuity payments if they have been married to the insured man for three years. Mr. Joseph Harper, manager of the Harvey, Ill. Social Security field office announced.

"Until January 1, only wives who had married the insured worker before 1939 or before he was 60 years old were eligible," he said. "The amendments of 1946 now make it possible to pay benefits to the wife 36 complete months after her marriage. She must, of course, be 65 years old and be living with the worker. The amount of the wife's monthly payment is one half that of her husband's benefit."

These benefits can be paid only if a claim is filed. Mr. Harper added. Any woman whose husband is receiving social security retirement benefits, who is 65 years old, and who has been married for three years, should get in touch with the nearest Social Security field office immediately to avoid any loss of benefits that may be payable to her.

Russia Seeks to Rule World Cardinal Spellman Charges

Only Bat-Blind Fail To Realize Communists Have Invaded U. S. Prelate Declares; Opposes Soviet-imposed Peace

NEW YORK—Francis Cardinal Spellman today sounded a solemn warning to the American people that Soviet Russia is bent on world domination and declared that only the bat-blind can fail to be aware of the Communist invasion of the United States.

"Every Communist is a potential enemy of the United States and only the bat-blind can fail to be aware of the Communist invasion of our country," Cardinal Spellman declares in an article "Do We Want a Soviet Peace?" which he wrote for the November issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Decrying the "arrogant attitudes and belligerent acts" that are "signs and symbols of a Soviet Peace," Cardinal Spellman warns against appeasement of Russia which would enchain America and other Democratic nations of the world.

"Today like a chilling mist there hangs over the Democratic nations the menace of a 'Pax Sovietica' which, if we submit to it, will commit our children to serfdom in a world itself enchained," the Cardinal declares.

"Soviet Russia is building an empire which covers nearly ten million square miles—one-sixth of the land surface of the earth—which surpasses even the Nazi totalitarian conquests and ambitions," he continues.

"And if, by appeasement, we concede a Soviet peace, we not only embolden the aggressor, but we weaken America and sacrifice nations too small, too frail to defend themselves, nations whose sacred trusteeships we pledged ourselves to protect."

Cardinal Spellman likens the present attempts of Soviet Russia to impose a Soviet peace on the world to the "Pax Tatarica" imposed after the Mongol hordes of Ghengis Khan overran Europe.

"Peace came then too—a brutal peace based on the complete captivity of the vanquished," he declares.

"And today, seven centuries later, a mighty dread of the re-birth of 'Pax Tatarica' assails me, a fear that through an identical insane, pagan pattern of despotism, destruction and death, a 'Pax Sovietica' is being imposed upon Europe, with the goal of the dictators, One World—Theirs."

While Russia sabotages a just peace with the intention of creating chaos to spread Communism, the United States is failing to guard our own nation against the wedge of American Communism, designed to divide and destroy the United States, Cardinal Spellman charges.

"Our ally in war has not remained our ally for peace and today Soviet Russia stands charged with being the saboteur of a just peace, her aim — world communism," Cardinal Spellman declares.

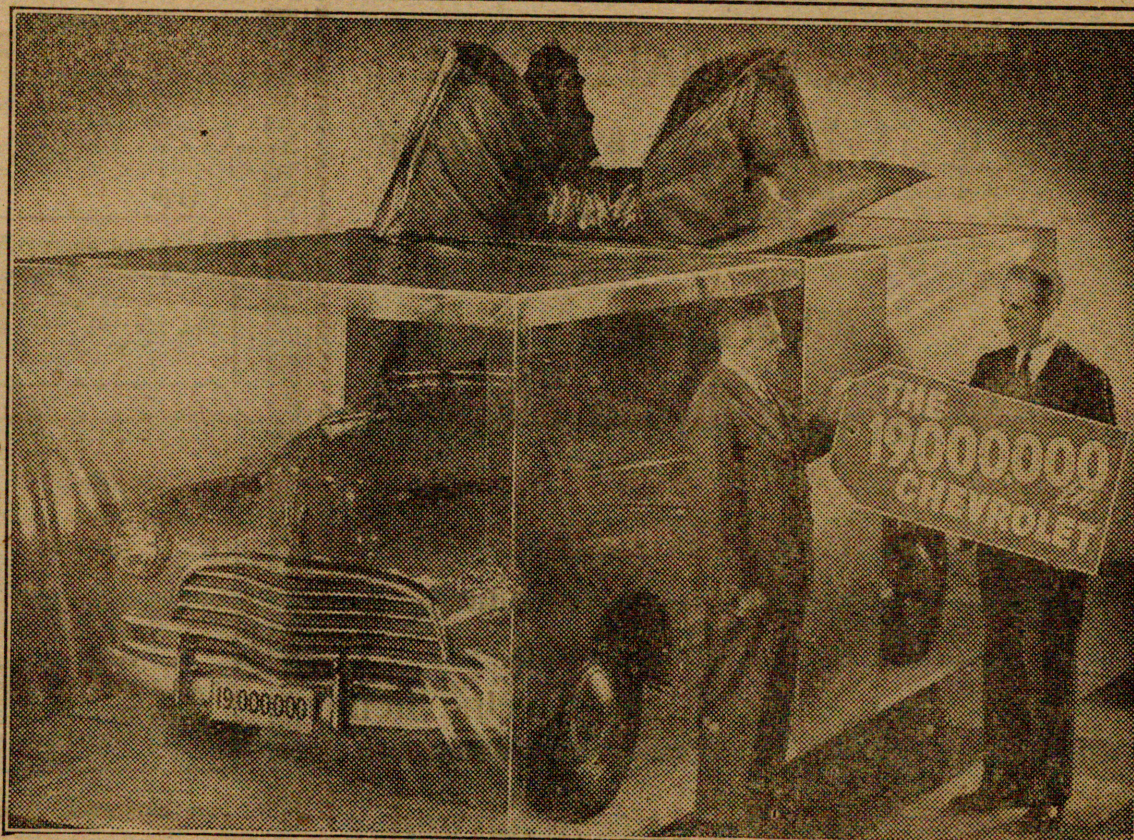

"We Americans talk of these great world, while we neglect to guard our own nation against the threat, the terrible tragedy, that we may fail to remain fundamentally these United States."

"The wedge dividing us is American Communism, and Soviet imperialism is its puppeteer. Either Americanism or communism may predominate, but never can they become reconciled."

JAPANESE EARTHQUAKE, TIDAL WAVE AND FIRE . . . A striking photograph made as the town of Shingu, Japan, burned after the earthquake and tidal wave had struck parts of Japan. People fled from the town to the beach flats in foreground leaving the fire to eat the heart out of Shingu. Hundreds died in coastal communities and thousands were rendered homeless by the Japanese disaster.

ANTI-GOVERNMENT DEMONSTRATION IN TOKYO . . . General view of the giant demonstration staged by Japanese labor union in Tokyo to protest government policies and demand ouster of the Yoshida cabinet. The demonstration, held in front of the Imperial palace, was the biggest in the Japanese capital since the May day parade that drew censure from Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Many Red flags were carried by the demonstrators.

HAIR CUT AT FOUR MONTHS . . . Stephen Aprigliano, Brooklyn, N. Y., a mighty young man of four months, is getting his first haircut. His mother keeps him in good humor with his diet of milk while Terry the barber carries on. Stephen actually was bored with the operation. Terry said Steve was the youngest customer he had ever served—and about the hairiest one to clip. Usually most boys get their first barber shop hair cut after they have reached ripe age of one year.

MISS SLICK CHICK OF 1947 . . . The Poultry and Egg National board has announced that they will pick Miss Slick Chick of 1947 at the premiere showing in New York City of "The Egg and I." Selection will be made on charm, personality and sex appeal, including coquettishness of eyes, contour of figure and sweep of tail.

MAN OF THE YEAR . . . Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, who was recently selected by Times magazine as "the man of the year." The selection was made on the basis of outstanding work done by Secretary Byrnes during United Nations' meetings.

PRINCE'S TEACHER . . . Elizabeth G. Vining, Philadelphia, who is serving as tutor for Crown Prince Akhito, also is teaching Japanese teachers on "education for democracy."

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Authorized Appraisers

Because a large majority of real estate appraisers selected by banks and other lenders were amendable to pressure and "obliging" insofar as the real estate operators were concerned in turning in high appraisals, Veterans' administration announces that after January 2, it will select its own appraisers of real property in an effort to protect veterans against over-priced properties in the current high market.

Under the revised procedure, VA will designate by name the person to appraise each piece of property offered for sale to veterans under the guaranty loan provision of the G.I. bill. For the past 15 months, the lender was permitted to select any appraiser he desired from a panel of local appraisers whose general qualifications had been reviewed and approved by VA.

As a result of this practice, VA believes tendency on the part of some lenders to use exclusively the services of certain "obliging" appraisers, who were most amenable to turning in a high appraisal where necessary to meet the asking price, will be eliminated.

The original system was inaugurated to speed up appraisals and, while it has done so, VA now believes the system has proved susceptible to abuses which more than offset the advantages it was designed to achieve.

Questions and Answers

Q. Due to a doctor's order for special nurses, I was called on the case of a veteran who was critically ill. At the time I was told that the government had made provisions and that I would be paid. After completion of the case, I was told that I may not get paid. That has been six months ago, and I still have not received a definite answer. Will you please inform me as to whether such provisions are made or where I can find out?—A. C. B., R.N., ex-army nurse, Pontiac, Mich.

A. From the information you give, I would be inclined to say that it would be up to the veteran you served or the doctor to get your money. Veterans' administration, generally speaking, has its own nurses, and is only responsible for payment to its own nurses and to those private nurses where they are called in on contract. If your contract was not with Veterans' administration, it is not responsible.

Q. My husband had reenlisted in the regular army for three years in January, 1946. On October 16 he was discharged with a disability discharge. We are now living with in-laws and he is unable to do heavy work. We have one boy in school and a baby two and one-half months old. We are afraid to rent a place and get a job for fear my husband will get sick and have to enter a hospital, leaving his family alone without any income. Should my husband get a pension from the government? If so, where can I write about it?—Mrs. E. D., Stamford, Neb.

A. If your husband still has the disability for which he was discharged, he is entitled to apply to Veterans' administration for a disability rating. There is a VA center at Lincoln and a sub-regional VA office at Omaha. Suggest you write to either of these VA offices.

Q. I have lost my discharge papers and have been unable to find them. I want to know where to write to get a copy or a duplicate. Can you tell me?—J. E. H., Camp Taylor, Ky.

A. Write to the St. Louis Army Center, Office of the Adjutant General, 4300 Goodfellow blvd., St. Louis 2, Mo. Include your full name and serial number and they will send you a certificate in lieu of your discharge paper.

Q. My husband reenlisted in the army for three more years. I wonder if he could get a government loan of $1,000 to buy a nice little country home while he is still in the service?—Mrs. M. B. E., Charlottesville, Va.

A. No, not under the G.I. bill, which applies to veterans only, and that means men or women who have received an honorable discharge from the armed services.

Q. If a serviceman is drawing a pension on account of malaria attacks, how long will he continue to receive his pension check?—Mrs. A. C. E., Westby, Wis.

A. That depends entirely upon his degree of disability. If his condition should improve or if he should entirely recover, Veterans' administration likely would reduce or even discontinue his pension checks. On the other hand, if his condition should get worse, a new disability rating might increase his pension. It depends upon his degree of disability.

Faithful Model of Sir Drake's Ship Inch Long

Among the outstanding exhibits of glass-case ship models is the Hampshire collection in the Institute of Marine Engineers in London, says Collier's. The life work of one man, it consists of 13 miniature reproductions of famous vessels built on a scale of 1 inch to 64 feet, or about one-eighth of the usual size of decorative ship models.

Most unusual of them all is a faithful reproduction of Sir Francis Drake's three-masted Golden Hind, which is one inch in overall length, or so small that it can be hidden behind a half dollar.

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

When Richard McFarlane disappeared during World War I, he left his wife, Julia, to raise their two children with the aid of her father-in-law, John I. McFarlane. After a lapse of 25 years, with no word as to whether Richard is dead or alive, Julia is beset with new worries when Ric, now 27, and serving in World War II, shows obvious signs of inheriting his father's recklessness, and Jill, 26, falls in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. Jill learns from Spang that Ric is paying attention to a divorcee of questionable character and goes to camp to investigate. Ric tells her he is on duty and unable to see her. However, she meets Spang again at the Officers' club.

CHAPTER VII

"On Saturday night you can see every officer in this place, except the poor guys who get stuck with duty. Every single one, anyway," Lieutenant Stark said, "and about half the married men."

"Even Old Cyanide," Lieutenant Crawford put in. "He's out there by the window, polluting the atmosphere."

Jill followed the movement of Spang's eyes and saw a tall captain sitting alone. He had reddish hair, turning gray, a leathery skin, cold blue eyes and a grim mouth under a stiff, clipped mustache.

"Go easy, Joe, the enemy is listening," Stark warned.
"You mean that captain? Who is he?" Jill asked.

"His name is Mackey," Stark said in a low voice.

"The boys call him Old Cyanide," Spang explained, "because he has a corrosive tongue and you need a gas-mask when he turns loose a barrage of language on you."

"Old army man," supplied Crawford. "Efficient as hell and just as popular. He was a major before Pearl Harbor, over in the Islands, and they busted him after December seventh. Naturally he's sore, and he takes it out on anybody who gets within ten feet of him."

"He looks lonely," Jill said. "He seems to have collected a few decorations."

"Battle stuff," Spang said. "Last war."

"He'd be handsome if he didn't have such a bitter face," Jill mused. "He does have a very smart military air."

The three young men simultaneously snapped their shoulders back and straightened their ties, then laughed together.

"Get hold of yourself, Joe, she wasn't even looking at you."

"Suppose I have to break my neck now to get to be a captain."

They were nice lads, with their sunburned good-natured faces and the stark, wide breadth of forehead that marked the line of their garrison caps. Jill laughed with them, waited while they wrangled amiably over the check.

Spang said, "Take off, you fellows. I've got a date with Jill. You really didn't want to catch that bus, did you, Jill?"

"It isn't terribly important," she admitted, smiling at him. You love me, Spang—you know you love me. It shows in your eyes. It's in your voice.

Stark and Crawford said, "Good night, Miss McFarlane," as they all went out into the warm, star-spangled night.

Jill Meets

Mrs. Calvert

"That captain reminds me of some one," she said to Spang, "but I can't seem to remember who it is."

"Heydrich or Himmler, maybe," "Oh, no, no one like that. He hasn't a vicious face. He looked a bit—pathetic, to me."

"You're a soft-hearted girl. Old Cyanide's as tough as they make 'em, and the army makes 'em plenty tough. He thinks all the young officers are upstarts and ninety-day wonders, and he resented being sent here, I've been told."

"I still think there are chinks in his steel armor. Didn't you have another engagement, Spang? Don't let me upset your plans."

"I hadn't any plans, except to kill another Saturday night. And even if I had had, they'd be unimportant now that you're here."

So she glowed again, and the world was a lovely place, even with the sudden cloud of war hanging over it and dimming all the future. She would not let it dim the present.

She said, "Shall we just walk around and talk, or would you like to do something else?"

"There's the officer's club. But it's mostly a big poker game on Saturday nights. I know a little spot out this way where the floor is pretty good. Like dancing?"

"Oh, I'd love dancing."

The place, neon-lighted, hid its daytime dinginess under a glitter of gaiety.

"Let's try the corners," Spang said, slipping his arm around her. "More breathing space there."

The dancing did not matter. Nothing mattered except that Spang's arm was around her, the silver wings on his breast close to her cheek, her hand curled in his big palm. She could hear her own heart beating, lifting happily, because she was so terribly in love.

Spang pushed her big hat back. "Can't see your eyes."

His own were deep and warm and smiling at her. His head bent close. Was he keeping his feelings sternly controlled because, as Julia had said, he had nothing to offer a woman but uncertainty or dread or grief? Couldn't he see that nothing mattered, not the future, for what was a future if you had a lovely present to remember when it came?

Now she had to keep her eyes cool because Spang was looking into them, but what if all the aching hunger in her heart welled up into them, naive and naked and defenseless, for him to see? So she said, quickly, "It's so warm in here I'm practically swooning. Let's get something cool to drink, shall we?"

"I doubt if we can find a table. But we can try." Spang led her back into the dim room where heads leaned close in every space.

"There was a girl with hair like yours, and her name was Julia, too," he said.

She clutched his arm suddenly. There, in a booth, his dark handsome head leaned close to a curled and silvered blonde, was Ric!

Spang had seen him, too. His face darkened, and he took her arm to lead her past, but Jill tingled and stiffened with sudden anger. She marched directly up to the startled pair, and instantly Ric leaped up and stood stiffly, until Spang made a little gesture and muttered something.

The blonde woman—she wasn't a girl, Jill saw—lifted carefully arched eyebrows.

"How do you do, Lieutenant?" she said, smoothly.

Ric made the introductions awkwardly. "My sister, Julia McFarlane, Mrs. Calvert. And may I present Lieutenant Gordon?"

Jill nodded briefly, her throat tight and aching, as she fought back the young rage with which she had blasted her brother so many times.

"Nice you could get a pass, Ric," she said coldly, "even if you didn't take the trouble to let me know."

"You were out," Ric fumbled, "I thought perhaps you'd gone home."

"I haven't gone home. I'll be here in the morning, and I'll expect to see you then."

"I don't know about tomorrow. I might be on duty," Ric was angry now, too.

"At least you'll telephone me," Jill said severely. "Nice to have seen you, Mrs. Calvert."

A Fulfillment Of a Dream

Spang made a curt little bow, and they walked away. Jill was trembling a little, troubled by this silly fury that had shaken her.

"He lied to me," she said, when they were out in the night again. "But why do I care? Why should it matter to me if he preferred being with that woman instead of me? I suppose it's because I hate seeing some one who belongs to me doing a cheap, dishonest trick. Spang, you didn't tell me she was pretty. It's the same one, isn't it—the woman you told me about?"

"Yes, that's the one. And I don't think she's pretty."

Jill warned a bit at that, and her tautness lessened. They were walking aimlessly now, the bare and glitter of the dance spot behind them.

"She isn't young, though," she said spitefully.

"She's been around," Spang said. "She knows what the score is."

"But what on earth does she want with Ric? I didn't tell Mother, Spang. I'd hoped it might be just a piece of foolishness that would pass. I hoped maybe Ric would be shipped out, and it would all end, and Mother needn't know. She does on Ric so, and I couldn't bear to hurt and worry her, when perhaps it was just a temporary folly."

"Ric won't be shipped out for a month, at least. No more quotas coming up. But when he gets into officer's training, he won't have any time for foolishness."

"Let's walk all the way, shall we? Or are you awfully tired?"

"No, I like walking. I'm glad you came down, Jill." Spang gathered her arm closer. "Because I may be leaving soon. I've asked for my transfer to active duty. I don't like this desk stuff."

"Soon?" Jill repeated in a small, thin voice. "How soon?"

"We never know in this army. But an older man can do what I'm doing here, and things are shaping up fast. I want to be in on them."

"You mean you want to fly?"

"I'm a flier, Jill. And our air force is getting to be a magnificent thing, and I want to be a part of it. I'll have to get back into training—I want to learn to handle heavy stuff."

"I suppose it has to be that way. I'll miss you, Spang. I hope you'll miss me a little."

Spang cleared his throat. "I'll miss you like the devil. But this mess will be over sometime, a year or two, I hope. Jill—wait a minute. . . . They were on a dimly lighted street, a shabby street, where a tall billboard made a dark rectangle of shadow. Spang drew her back further into the shadow, bent her head back, and kissed her swiftly on the lips. "Keep that for me till I come back," he said huskily.

"I will!" Jill whispered, quivering with breathless happiness from head to foot. "Oh, Spang, I will!"

They were silent all the way back to the hotel, but Jill's blood was a tumult, a singing. This was it! This was real. He did care. It was in the pressure of his fingers on her arm, in his eyes as they came into the lighted lobby, in his uncertain smile as he prodded the elevator button.

"You'll call me tomorrow morning? I'll see you again?"

Not too eagerly! Slow, Jill McFarlane!

"Do my best," he said, and flicked a little salute at her as the elevator door opened and he turned away.

Jill groped into the elevator. Through the rose-colored fog that enveloped her she was aware of some one else standing there. That cold-eyed captain Spang had called "Old Cyanide." He was looking at her keenly, and when she stopped at her floor he got out, too, and as she turned to go down the corridor he said, "Miss McFarlane?"

Jill stopped, puzzled.

"You are Miss McFarlane, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am Julia McFarlane."

"I am Roger Mackey. Pardon me for speaking to you, but I once had some friends named McFarlane—in Tennessee."

Captain Mackey Asks a Question

"I live in Tennessee." She had been right about him. He did look lonely and bewildered; the hardness, the bitterness the young officers had spoken of softened as he smiled at her.

"There was a girl with hair like yours, and her name was Julia, too," he said.

"My mother, perhaps. She was Julia McFarlane. She married Richard McFarlane, a sort of fourth cousin, I think."

"It was a long time ago," he said, "but you reminded me of that Julia McFarlane I knew, and then I heard your name spoken, so I took the liberty of speaking to you. Your mother is quite well?"

"Oh, yes, she's very well. And still very young and lovely looking, we think. I'll be glad to remember you to her, Captain Mackey."

"I doubt if she will remember me. It was all a very long time ago. Before the other war, in fact. But she was one of those women who do not easily forget. Good night, Miss McFarlane."

"Good night, Captain Mackey."

He reminded her of some one, why couldn't she think who it was? She liked him. He wasn't grim at all.

But she forgot him quickly, and it was weeks before she thought of him again, because she was in love and Spang had kissed her. Life was wonderful. Thin, lemon-tinted dawn was creeping into the east before she fell asleep.

Jill waited all morning, wandering around the room, frowning at the telephone, but neither Ric nor Spang called. She grew more impatient by the moment, though she knew that military duty for officers or enlisted men gave little thought to personal desires, and little freedom during the day. But this was Sunday. Ric was avoiding her, of course. And now she would have to go home and make up some vague, comforting lies for her mother, and old John I. would look at her with eyes like jet augers and probably corner her somewhere later and ask her what was going wrong with Ric.

JESUS INTERVIEWED BY NICODEMUS

LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-11, 16, 17.
MEMORY SELECTION—Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.—John 3:3.

How does one become a Christian? This was the question of Nicodemus, and it is the question in the hearts and minds of thousands in every generation. The answer is clear and definite.

The only entrance into the Christian life is by the door of the new birth. Regeneration is the act of God whereby the divine nature is imparted to the believing sinner and he becomes the child of God. He who has not entered by this way has not entered at all. He is still dead in trespasses and sins, without God and without hope (Eph.
2:1, 12).

The Pharisees who looked for the coming of the Messiah as a secular conqueror wondered at this new spiritual leader. It was probably as much on their behalf as his own that Nicodemus came to inquire of Jesus. In answering his questions Jesus reveals the necessity, the nature, and the method of regeneration.

I. The New Birth—a Necessity
(vv. 1-7).

Our Lord's visitor was a man of distinction and standing in the community, but Jesus was not unduly impressed by the dignity and high station of his visitor, nor by the visitor's courteous acknowledgment of his own position as a great teacher.
With decisive boldness Jesus declares that this man, a cultured and distinguished ruler of the Jews, must be born again, if he is to see the kingdom of God.

God is no respecter of persons.
The doctor of divinity must be born again just as much as the illiterate fisherman. D. L. Moody once said that he was thankful it was to such a man as Nicodemus that Jesus presented the necessity of the new birth, or men would have said that only the down-and-outer needed to be saved.

Two reasons are given by our Lord for the "must" of verse 7:
(1) The Kingdom of God is a spiritual Kingdom and cannot be entered by way of our human nature; and (2) "that which is born of the flesh is flesh" and is radically and essentially bad. To learn why that is true read Jeremiah 13:23 and Galatians 5:19-21.

Scripture on this point is almost diametrically opposed to much of the teachings in our schools and colleges. But God's Word is right;
let us follow it.

II. The New Birth—a Mystery
(vv. 8-11).

God has graciously revealed to us "all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge" of Christ (II Pet. 1:3). But it is true—and we say quite appropriately true—that he has some things hidden in his own blessed counsels. We know the experience of the new birth. We see the blessed results of regeneration. But what actually takes place is a divine mystery, not fathomable by human reason. Those who insist that all spiritual truth be put through the little norm of their intelligence will never understand it or receive its blessing (I Cor. 2:14).

The striking illustration of the life-giving and energizing wind used by our Lord is most illuminating. Wind is unseen, but the results of its movement are evident.
Even so the spiritual rebirth of men is an enigma to the worldly man, but even he can see its results in godly living.

We know that regeneration is not only a possibility, but an actuality, a fact; in truth, the greatest of all facts.

III. The New Birth—a Reality
(vv. 16, 17).

Just as there was healing and life in a look at the uplifted serpent in the wilderness (Num. 21:8), so there is life for a look at the Crucified One. Faith receives God's perfect provision for sin.

Verse 16 may well be regarded as the greatest sentence in the greatest Book in the world. It presents the whole plan of salvation—its source, its ground, its recipients, its condition, and its result.

This glorious salvation is for all men—"whosoever"—but some reject it. Notice that God does not condemn them. Their own evil works and desires condemn them (vv. 17-20). God in his grace is ready and willing to save, but men love "darkness rather than light," for their works are evil.

Our tender, loving heavenly Father has no desire to condemn anyone. The man or woman who falls under his condemnation of sin does so by choice. God's desire is that all should be saved.

Will you, unbeliever who reads
these lines, respond now to his gracious invitation?
